AUSPICIOUS INSPIRATION

Muni Shri 108 Avichal Sagar Ji Maharaj

Across India, there are approximately 650,000 villages. More than 300 million cows and cattle live on this sacred land, along with countless other animals and birds. However, despite this vast population of living beings, there is no such hospital network across the country where these innocent creatures can receive timely, advanced medical treatment and complete healthcare. If the 140 crore people of India were asked, “When you see an injured animal or bird on your way, is there a place where you can be assured that it will receive proper treatment?” perhaps very few would be able to answer this question. Human beings have created tremendous progress and resources for their own treatment and comfort, yet the same compassion and effort are still largely absent for these speechless creatures.

Inspired by the compassion and auspicious guidance of Param Pujya Muni Shri Avichal Sagar Ji, a resolve has now been made to change this situation. Inspired by Munishri’s compassionate vision, the goal has been set to establish 108 cow hospitals across India, at intervals of approximately 150 to 200 kilometres along every national highway. This is not merely a service initiative; it is a living expression of “Ahimsa Paramo Dharma” — Non-violence is the highest duty. Inspired by the sacred teachings of Lord Mahavir and Lord Ram, this initiative is intended for all living beings that have lived on this earth since time immemorial, so that they may be freed from suffering comparable to death and receive proper healthcare.

It is a unique confluence of kindness, compassion, and care, intended to awaken the spirit of compassion across India.

This is not merely a service project; it is a divine effort to put Lord Mahavir’s principle of Ahimsa into practice. This initiative will awaken a new sense of compassion, sensitivity, and protection of living beings across India.
